GRAIN & PLANK GRADING

Every plank is selected by its natural character: grain movement, knots, colour variation and texture. Grading helps define whether the floor feels clean, balanced or richly expressive.

PRIME / SELECT

Clean and refined, with subtle grain and minimal knots.

NATURAL / CHARACTER

Balanced variation with visible grain and natural marks.

RUSTIC

Bold grain movement, knots and deeper character.

Prepared with Care. Selected with Purpose.

Before a plank becomes part of a floor, it must be dried, stabilised and carefully selected. This process helps protect the wood's natural beauty and supports long-lasting performance.

KILN DRYING

Kiln drying uses controlled heat, airflow and ventilation to reduce moisture from the timber. It helps improve stability, reduce warping and prepare the wood for precise flooring production.

CHEMICAL MOISTURE CONTROL

Chemical moisture control is used in some timber processes to slow rapid surface drying. For flooring, the goal remains the same: controlled moisture movement and better dimensional stability.

WOOD GRADING

Each board is assessed for visible character such as grain, knots, splits, colour variation and usable clear wood. Grading helps match the right plank quality to the right application.

Stable timber. Honest selection. Better floors.

Spaces That Feel Real.

Natural wood brings warmth, character, and a sense of belonging to every space.

“

When a client chooses Viera, they place their trust in us. We take that trust personally. Every detail should reflect the same care and quality we would expect if the space were our own.

“

For me, quality is defined by the details. From the character of the wood we select to the precision of the final finish, everything that carries the Viera name should reflect a standard we are proud to stand behind. What we create should feel right in your space and remain something you value for years to come.
